ECODRIVING WORKSHOP

Certification Scheme in Europe?

from 13th to 15th April 2015

in Hotel Barónka, Bratislava, Slovakia

We met and discussed different approaches to Ecodriving from several EU countries counting UK, Germany, Lithuania, Czech Republic, Slovakia as well as from different EU projects as ECOWILL or ACTUATE.

For more information read whole article or attached materials from the workshop.

Initial position

In the EU several initiatives focused on eco-driving for different vehicles and different drivers levels exist. We would like to fix internationally acceptable standards, certification scheme for eco-driving and to base it as a the green label for Europe. This label will be used as an ecological symbol for companies, municipalities or any other subjects dealing with a fleet of vehicles – trucks, buses, vans, personal cars, etc.

How will we certify the drivers and instructors? How will we monitor and report eco-driving in companies? There are several important questions to be discussed and answered in the international circle of eco-driving experts.

Therefore CEPTA organises international eco-driving workshop, inviting eco-driving experts from whole Europe to agree on eco-driving standards and certification criteria for European certification scheme, as well as to base down the network of national contact points and certified instructors on eco-driving.

Target group

Ecodriving experts, instructors in practice from different EU countries.
